"The South 40" by JAMES A. SMITH EXTENSION AGENT

Feeder cattle sales have been pretty established for this fall. Nomination forms for the Lynchburg sale will be distruted about August 10.

A decision on if and when a Farmville sale is to be made within the next several weeks. If there is a beef producer who would be interested in serving on the Board of Directors of a Farmville Sale Committee, please let me know.

Sale dates are: Lynchburg - Yearling Sept. 15, Calf Sales Oct. 6 and 27, Yearling and Calf Nov. 10. Amherst Calf Sales Oct. 14 and 28.

* * *

Although it will not be a requirement for selling, producers are urged to vaccinate calves for IBR and P-3 with nasalgen. This can be done at the same time as vaccinating for black leg.

It's generally felt that vaccination of the entire herd is a management practice that should be followed.

Proper care and handling of all vaccines are very important, but probably even more important with this one if immunization is to occur.

A publication called "Land" is a monthly publication that relates to legislative proposals either under consideration or recently enacted.

Persons interested in keeping abreast of this legislation are invited to request that their name be placed on the mailing list.

Two events are coming up that will be of interest. The Virginia Beef Cattle Association has scheduled a bus trip to Ohio the first week in August. The cost is $80.00. Any cattleman interested in traveling to the Ohio area visiting buyers who have purchased cattle from the Lynchburg sale are invited to participate. This is a good opportunity to see some of the steer feeding facilities of the Eastern Corn Belt. We need to know right away if you are interested.

Another important event is the Virginia Farm Management tour to be held in Rockingham County Saturday, August 27. This program is designed to help farmers do a better job. In exchanging information with other successful farm-based businessmen, there is education, motivation and challenge.

There will be eight stops, visiting farms that are being successfully operated. Plan to attend. Additional information will be sent in the coming days.

Now is the time to caulk windows and doors. If you are looking for a rule of thumb of how much caulk to buy - - allow ⅓ cartridge per window or door. The recommended kind is an acrylic latex caulk. It will bond to most surfaces.

If plans for this summer call for building a porch or deck, it will last longer if built from pressure-treated wood. Effective preservatives include water born salts, creosate and pentachlorophenol. For above ground use, be sure lumber is stamped AWPB LP-2, LP-3, LP-4, LP-5 or LP-7. For a ground contact use, be sure lumber is stamped AWPB LP-22, LP-33, LP-44, LP-55 or LP-77.

NOTICE

One of our longest established, local businesses is getting renewed management attention. Bill Martin, owner of the Western Auto Store told us in a recent interview that he is going to take a more active role in its operations. Bill is the son-in-law of P. G. and Margaret Reynolds of Red House.

The Western Auto has one of the best credit programs in America and has a big monthly sale of a wide variety of popular merchandise.

Bill says his goal is to consistently provide prompt and friendly service and a well stocked store. Bill added that he is investing heavily in new stocks. "When a customer takes time to stop in to see us, we don't want to dissapoint him by being out of stock."

He believes the finest people available are working in the store. "Marie Hickey, Manager, is very exact and precise in all her dealings. She will do what she says. Her reputation is well known to our customers and Western Auto officials as well. Van can fix anything, is deeply interested in customer satisfaction, and loves to trade guns and advise on auto parts. Mildred Coleman is coming into her own as a sales lady and Credit Manager."

Bill wants to invite you all to stop by to get acquainted and see all the new merchandise arriving weekly. New emphasis is being placed on items like tires, radios, hi-fi's, tv's, guns and rifles, stoves and sewing machines, to name a few. Bill, in short,wants to see you soon and often.

GOOD NEWS FOR HOMEMAKERS

Sewing At Home?

Interfacings and linings are an important purchase consideration when planning a home sewing profect. Thought should be given to choosing the proper interfacing or lining to coordinate with an outer fabric, for both desired effect and care compatibility!

The most common function of interfacing is to impart stiffness or body to collars, cuffs, facing waistbands, and enhance the drape of the finished product. Woven and nonwoven interfacings are available in light, medium and heavy weights. Most are machine washable and dryable, since the majority are polyester cotton, rayon or a blend of these.

A real time saver is fusible or press-on interfacing. Applied with an iron, rather than sewn, they are available in machine washable, woven and non-woven varieties.

Linings - perform different functions. A lining fabric may be used to cover the raw edges and wrong sides of a garment, or home furnishings, or support the outer fabric and prevent unnecessary wear. Teamed with curtains and draperies, a lining prevents some fabrics from fading due to sunlight. They hang loose and are sewn in, so that seams are not visible.

Underlining is similar to lining since it adds extra body and support to a garment. However, it is cut like the outer fabric and pressed onto each piece of the garment before any seams are sewn, so seams may be noticeable.

Interlining, added to a lining fabric, increases warmth and insulation. It is usually sewn between the outer fabric and lining or between two thicknesses of the outer material.

Linings come in various weaves - plain, basket, satin, twill-and three different weights. Man-man fibers are most popular.

It pays to read instructions. Other information, such as whether the interfacing or lining is preshrunk, is important. The outer fabric and the interfacing or lining fabric must be compatible. If both are not dimensionally stable to laundering or dry cleaning, one fabric may shrink, and cause the other to pucker. Consequently, good cleaning results, and finishing or pressing a garment for satisfactory appearance are virtually impossible.

In addition, all component parts -- thread, binding, closures, belts, shoulder pads, trim--should be either as launderable as the outer fabric and lining or dry cleanable.

ATTENTION 4-H'ERS; Registration for Appomattox 4-H'ers Sewing Classes will be June 30, at (1:30 P.M.) at the Extension Office. Pamplin 4-H'ers may register on July 1, (1:30 P.M.) at Pamplin Elementary Library.
